What should be the ultimate criterion?

Job performance - or well-being?

Swipe →

Job performance

- ◆ The ultimate criterion is usually defined as the full domain of job performance
- ◆ Colloquially: the "bottom line"

Well-being - optimal functioning

- ◆ A broader vision of well-being as the ultimate criterion
- ◆ It does not preclude performance - it encompasses it

Not a new idea, but an overlooked one

- ◆ Psychology of Working
- ◆ Critical Studies
- ◆ Humanitarian Work Psychology
- ◆ Occupational Health Psychology
- ◆ Positive Organizational Scholarship

WHY IT IS HARDER - AND BETTER

Complexity adds rigor and realism

- ◆ Multiple perspectives, domains, and levels
- ◆ With both synergies and tensions
